NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Kowloon Roads.

The Public Works Department would do wet weather sets in. These roads have not | crumbles in. Would it not be cheaper in the been constructed to stand heavy traffic. They are, in the majority of cases, not macadamized like those of Hongkong, but simply made up of rolled or stamped earth. So long as traffic was confined to rickshas and pedestrians all went well and the roads remained in fairly good condition. But matters are changed now. The Siege Train, the Bengal Lancers and a large number of transport mules and bullocks, with heavy wagons, are now stationed in Kowloon. The wheels of the carriages of the heavy siege guns have cut many of the roads up terribly, and the passage over them of cavalry, bullocks, mules and army wagons, has greatly added to the damage commenced by the passing of the Artillery: The result is that the roads so traversed have been cut up into ruis and furrows and are, in many places, inches deep in dust. The state that these roads will get into so soon as the rains commence can be easily appreciated by anyone who will take the trouble to inspect them in their present condition, and it is evidently high time that the matter was taken in hand. Kowloon is growing in importance day by day and traffic is increasing, so if the roads are allowed to become quagmires, as many of them undoubtedly will if not looked to at once, a vast amount of unnecessary inconvenience will be caused.

The roads_traversed by the tramways of [1453b] the Godown Company also require attention. These are concreted, but are badly cut up in places where the coolies have, carelessly allowed the heavily laden trollies to run off the metals. These ruts are a source of danger to rickshas and to cyclists, and in the dark are apt to be the cause of sprained ankles or broken limbs to pedestrians. Several minor accidents have already occurred and we think that repairs should be taken in hand before some bad by thousands of persons daily, require constant attention and should be looked to directly, the first traces of wear become apparent. A little work done at frequent intervals would keep them in proper order and would be cheaper in the long run.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

This afternoon, a meeting of the Hongkong Legislative Council was held in the Council Chamber at the Government Offices, there being present His Excellency Sir Henry Blake, G.C.M.G., the Hon. J. H. Stewart-Lockhart (Colonial Secretary), Mr. C. M. Messer (Acting Colonial Treasurer), the Hon. W. Meigh Good man (Attorney General), the Hon. F. H. May, C.M.G. (Captain Superintendent of Police), the Hon. Basil Taylor (Acting Harbour Master) the Hon. C. P. Chater, C.M.G., the Hon. Thurburn, the Hon. J. J. Keswick, the Hon. R. M. Gray, and Mr. R. F. Johnston (Acting Clerk of Councils:)

The Clerk of Councils read the minutes of the last meeting.

CAPR D'AGUILAR LIGHT. The Colonial Secretary laid on the table correspondence relating to the removal of the D'Aguilar light. It had been asked what was going to be done by the Government. They had referred the matter home for information It had been decided by the Government to call upon the Hon. Harbour Master and the Hon. Director of Public Works to frame an estimate for the proposed works, and when this had been done it was proposed to go forward with the works. When a proof had beer finally struck one would be forwarded to hon members. SANITARY BYE-LAW.

His Excellency the Governor said the Hon-Director of Public Works had moved at the last meeting that the Sanitary Bye-law (Cleansing and Limewashing), he passed by the Government so as to become a bye-law. This had been postponed on account of the absence of the Chinese members. He understood that the Hon. D. P. W. still apheld the resolution to proceed with the motion, and to allow of discussion at this meeting, the motion would have to be seconded.

The Colonial Secretary said that to enable discussion to be proceeded with, he would second the motion Dr. Ho Kai said he opposed the motion. He opposed the motion because he considered the application of the byelaws to the villages named unnecessary, and expensive and troublesome both to the Government and to the poor villagers. He thought the byelaw was passed by a very narrow majority of one by the Sanitary Board, and the minority included the Hon. Capt. Superintendent of Police, and Dr. Bell. It was not merely cleaning, the houses. If a byelaw was passed which .compelled the villagers to have a "Spring cleaning" twice a year he would support it. Then he thought that it would cost from $5 to $10.

washing had been proved very useful as yet. Hon Wei Yok concurred with these remarks. He considered that limewashing was not only unnecessary but that it was a hardship to the villagers. /Before the motion was passed hoped that the hon members would give their serious consideration to the matter.

On being put to the Council the motion was unanimously rejected.

CIVIL MEDICAL STAFP. The Attorney General moved the second reading- of the Bill entitled An Ordinance to provide for the better enforcement of discipline among the subordinate staff in the Civil Medical Department. He said he could not de better than refer to the objects and reasons' at

The fourteenth ordinary annual meeting of shareholders in the above Company was held tat the Company's office, No. 2, Connaught ing the Report of the Directors, with a Statement of Accounts to the 31st December, 1900.

The Hon. J. J. Keswick (chairman) presided. and the others present were the Hon. C. P. Chater, C.N.C. Messrs. C. S. Sharp, N. A. Siebs, P. Witkowski, G. H. Medhurst, A. M. Marshall, P. Sache, A. J. .The notice calling the meeting was read.

The Chairman said :- Gentlemen, with your permission I propose to dispense with the reading of the Report. The year 1900 as will be seen from the figures detailed in the Accounts was, notwithstanding the check to trade which followed closely upon the political troubles in the North, one of marked progress for the Company, one of the prosperous years in the steady, though sometimes slow, development of your business and had we been able to take full advantage of the exceptional circumstances brought about by the war the results, good as they are, would have been better but we had not the accommodation to do all that was asked of us, and consequently were not able to reap the utmost gain from the favourable conditions of the moment. Bearing this in mind and in continuation of our policy of being ahead rather than behind the times we have made further acquisitions of land and are providing additional accommodation, our object being to possess sufficient room to enable us to carry on work to the satisfaction of constituents and with credit to ourselves. This, under the cramped conditions of the past 3 years, has not always been possible but the extensions we have made and others under contemplation, should, before long, provide the necessary remedy. The Capital of the Company was increased early last year to meet the outlays I have referred to and in order to preserve a more even balance between our indebtedness and Gapital. The few shares that were not taken up represent fractions, and shares belonging to persons who were absent from the Colony will be dispused of during the. year. The premium of the new issue it is proposed to place to Reserve and no doubt you will approve of this as of the other suggested appropriations of profit. By the typhoon of 10th November the Company's property ashore and affort suffered to the jextent of nearly $10,000 and I have no hesitation in saying that had there been shelter for our craft we should have lost very considerably less. The Causeway Bay shelter which no doubt was good enough for the days when it was made is barely sufficient to receive small craft alone, and quite inadequate for the hundreds, if not thouprotection in the typhoon season. The anchorremains in one direction, viz from the North East but forms a most dangerous trap in the event of it shifting; as was the case in the November typhoon and it is to be hoped that further accomodation may be provided in time to avoid a repetition of the damage done on that occasion. The bubonic plague has been a serious trouble and expense to us in the past but I hope the remedial measures adopted will tend to reduce the number of cases during the current year and eventually eradicate the pest

ment of accounts. Mr. Goosman seconded. He said he fully and he was certain it could not be done for | endorsed the chairman's remarks. He supposed, they could congratulate themselves on Hon Mr. Thurburn said he supported Dr. the satisfactory working, but he trusted that Ho Kai's remarks. He did not know that limewith the better accommodation spoken of by the chairman, things would be better in future. He hoped they would have another good year. As regarded the shed for carpenter's goods, perhaps the Government would give notice to the chairman's remarks and perhaps the chairman might have occasion to move in the matter. They could congratulate themselves that their losses had not been more serious than they had been. The motion was put to the meeting and

THE CRISIS IN THE NORTH.

TIENTSIN.

Affairs in the North. (From Our Own Correspondent.)

TIENTSIN, March 1st. We are beginning once more to take a slight interest in Edicts. The long series of meaningless contradictions or obvious misrepresentations which have dribbled out since last June is closed apparently, and a new series has been commenced, which will require some watching to see if they are genuine or not. The Edict of the 3rd of the 1st Moon sanctioning the punishment of the officials is genuine enough and many of the sentences have been, I believe already carried out. Two at least of the exe-"cutions were conducted with as much publicity and ceremony as we could demand, in the presence of the President of the Board of Punishment and representatives of the Allied forces. The Edict runs :-- We have already in former Edicts inflicted severe punishment on those officials who caused the present trouble. But we have received a memorial from Prince Ching and Li Hung-chang stating that the Foreign Powers insist upon yet further punishment. We therefore order that in addition to our former mandate the following changes :-Prince Ching to commit suicide, and Yu Hsien to be executed "at once," officials being appointed to witness it. It had been already decreed that Prince Tuan and Tsai Lau should be executed " with grace" but in regard to their relationship to us we will treat them leniently and they will therefore be banished to He for life, and will start at once under official escort. Kang Yi, who was most malicious in his action. should have been executed "at once," but he is already dead, Yiu Nien and Chao Shu-chiao were to be executed "with grace," but now we order them to commit suicide. 'The Governor of Shensi, Cheng Chun-Hauan; must witness their death. Chi Hsin and Hsu Sheng-Yüh (Son of Hau Ting) have been accused by the Foreign Powers of helping the Boxes and purposely causing trouble, and have already been degraded. But if the Powers who now hold them prisoners will hand them over to Prince Ching and Li Hung-chang, let them be executed "at once," and let the President of the Board of Punishment witness it. Hau Tung and Li Ping-heng both talked confidently of the Boxers and favoured them, and they ought to be executed "with grace" they are already dead, and we therefore can only cancel their posthumous honours, Let this be obeyed.

The Edict which I subjoin is of a previous date but has been published since the above. At first glance it was thought by intelligent Chinese to be a bona fide Edict of the Emperor's, and it was accordingly believed and hoped that he was regaining power. But on closer examination it proves to be merely a livery clever attempt to shift all responsibility for the recent trouble on to official shoulders, and as another Edict of the same date commands all the Edicts since last June to be produced for Imperial inspection, as it is believed they have been "tampered with," I think you will find that the Court will pretend that all the Edicts favourable to Boxers etc. were altered by "unscrupulous officials" after they were drafted by the Imperial hand, and we shall probably hear at some later date that the officials now being executed were the culprits in this matter, and in this way it will come to be known that these men were executed, not for their Offense against foreign nations, but for altering the Imperial Edicts. The subjoined Edict wil be read with interest. It is full of minute contradictions and little slips which in reality strengthen the evidence against the Court, and the statement that the Southern Viceroys were ordered not to fight harmonises well with the involuntary viciousness of the immediately following reference to their having stood by and not helped the Court in their difficulties! It appears that Count von Waldersee does not place much faith in the Chinese attitude, as on the 25th ulto. he renews his instructions for troops to be ready for a possible advance early this month. A force of some 2600 British would probably leave here under the command of Gen. Cummins, D.S.O., Gen. Richardson commanding the Cavalry, and the Field Marshal would himself command the allied column. Some doubt is felt, however, as to whether the force here is really strong enough for any such expedition. The country round here is increasingly disturbed and an expedition into the hills would place us at a considerable disadvantage. I forget whether I mentioned in my last the frequent disappearance of units, and attacks made on foreigners. Three or four violent deaths have been met this past week by men who more or less provoked Chinese attack by their own unlawful proceedings. It is not wise for toreigners to go about alone far from the settlements now, as the whole country abounds with brigands:

The port is well open again and flocks o people are expected up. The future of trade is at present obscure and like everything else will depend mainly on the action of the Court Li Hung-chang talks confidently of the almost immediate. withdrawal of the foreign troops, and is already making plans for the disposal of Chinese forces here and in Peking as soon as the "Allies have withdrawn!" Picture us guarded and protected by Chinese braves! The idea was never one which excited feelings of respectful awe, but is deliciously comic now.

The Australian Contingent leave this in Fuseliers are again coming North, I hear.

EDICT ISSUED FEB. 14TH, 1901. The revolt of the Boxers, last summer was the cause of much bloodshed between hitherto friendly nations, and led to the fall of even our seat of Government. When the Capital of Our Empire was attacked, I escorted the Empress Dowager and escaped to the West- the funeral procession of Queen Victoria left Foreign Powers. Yesterday we received telethe remaining articles in such a way that China the Foreign Powers. The time has now there-

At that time we werd in a serious dilemma, our authority being set at that we mourn one who has passed away from naught, and we feared for the security of the the land of the living. dynasty. On the 21st of the 7th Moon (July 14th) the most serious event happened (Fall walked to the sea, and there committed the law suits in which native Christians were conimpeach them for injustice to the Christians, the people always sided with them against the Christians, so that a bitter feeling grew up between the people and the converts, and they gave the Boxers an excuse for mischief. This was entirely the fault of the local officials. When the Boxers had destroyed churches and railways we ordered the reserve forces in Chihli to suppress them, but the Imperial troops were very badly controlled. They persecuted the good people, and the Boxers proclaimed that they were only against the Christians and would do no harm to the people. This caused the people to fear the troops and turn to the Boxers for protection, and the Boxer force thus became stronger and stronger. This was the fault of the military officers who did not exercise proper authority over their soldiers. The Boxers spread wild rumour that they could perform great deeds by means of channs, and excited the ignorant people, and even the ignorant and conservative officials princes fell into the snare. These princes officials who for many years have beheld with envy the power of other nations, foolishly hoped to strengthen our nation by the help of the Boxers, and caused Boxer drill to take place in every house and palace. Seeing this I and the Empress Dowager ordered Kang Yi to disperse these people, but instead of dispersing they appeared upon the walls of Peking in red belts and turbans and attacked the foreign Legations. The Empress Dowager has been regent and advisor for forty years, and I have been influenced throughout by her teaching to protect the Christians and be friendly to Foreign nations. What faithful and loyal people would burn houses and kill people, and what Government would break peace with other nations and support rebels! During the trouble the leaders were backed by somebody, and I and the Empress found ourselves deprived of all power and in great personal danger. This was the fault of the princes and officials. At the time when the Legations were beseiged we several times ordered the Ministers of the Tsungli Yamen to stop the attack and to visit the Foreign Ministers, but they were prevented by the firing on both sides. The Court did its utmost to try and stop the attack, and thus the worst calamity to the foreign Ministers was averted. It is I, who, in order to satisfy the Empress Dowager's anxiety sent fruits and wines to the foreign Ministers, and her anxiety for them aught to be widely known. Now by the peace negotiations I am in full possession still of power and Empire: I have lost neither prestige nor territory. I am grateful to the Foreign nations for their leniency, and truly grieved at what the officials have done, and am sorrowful and humiliated, but hopeful that peace is really ensured and that the Powers will not offer more serious difficulties to be overborne. Let Prince Ching and Li Hungchang negotiate the remaining articles carefully, and for the best interests of China. The Foreign nations are just and reasonable, and they know the capacity of China and they must modify their demands accordingly. We would further point out that at the time of the trouble, we ordered the Southern Viceroys to protect their Provinces but not to open have been more fitting than that the way to the hostilities. Fortunately they obeyed our wishes Royal tomb at Windsor should be through Powers, but entered into an agreement with the Consuls, and the trade of the Southern provinces was thereby saved from ruin. In times of peace these provinces were confident and boastful, but in time of need they were powerless, and instead of realizing the hardship and danger of the Court they stood calmly on one side and blamed it! Think of the position we were in. On the journey between Chang Ping and Hsien Hua, I attended the Empress

Within the past twenty years after any trouble there has been some feeble pretence. made at reform and talk of reorganizing Government finance and strengthening the Nation; but these plans became mere empty ornamental memorials, and in a short time corrupt practices and selfishness were again rampant. I would have you officials understand that the country cannot be built up in this way. At the best of times our finance is weak, and now this serious calamity has made us poorer them ever. You officials who have received so many gracious benefits from the Government must exert yourselves and display your patriotic loyalty by devising, some way by which we may be able to face the indemnity without causing the people to suffer too much. . It is of the utmost importance now to abolish selfishness and conservative principles from the official circles, and then the affairs of the State may be better managed. You must report to us when reforms are needed and begin at once, as I and the Empress Dowager look to you to help us recover what we have lost and suffered by this about a fortnight's time, and the Welsh great calamity to the nation. Let this be obeyed."-Free translation.

THE PROCESSION THROUGH LONDON,

GREAT MILITARY PAGEANT. Amid the most striking manifestations of profound national grief and reverence the remains of the Good and Great Queen Victoria were borne to rest at Windsor on and ulto. No event of our time and few in history will compare for stately dignity and the outpouring of a people's love with the magnificent solemn pageantry of this Royal funeral. The might and majesty of England's havel power attended the removal of the body from Cowes to Gosport on 1st ulto,, and on 2nd the military forces gave martial splendour to the funeral procession, while the tribute of multitudinous sorrowing crowds was deeply impressive. Nothing could and did not break peace with the Foreign | London, the heart of the Empire, so that the people might do homage and bid farewell to their revered Queen. Business was universally suspended, and the drawn blinds of the houses were mutely eloquent of the occasion. From early morning huge masses of people, all decently habited in black, poured forth from every quarter of the metropolis to line the route from Victoria Station to Paddington. It was a supremely reverent, orderly crowd. There was no hustling or pushing for places, though so dense was the gathering that enormous throngs in the background had no chance of seeing anything of the procession. Yet it seemed to be satisfaction enough for themmany women with weeping eyes-to be close to the spot where their dead Queen was carried past, while they could see nothing save the dancing plumes of the mounted troops in the procession, and hear the distant strains of sad funeral music.

It was a typical grey winter day, rather inclined to be misty in the morning, and on the whole well suited to the funeral surroundings, as the early mists rolled away, leaving the sun unable to gain the mastery over the pall of leaden-hued clouds that shrouded the sky. The special frain bearing the Royal coffin and chief mourners from Gosport arrived at Victoria in good time, and without a hitch the funeral procession was got in order for the solemn march to Paddington. The head of theprocession, which was nearly two miles in length, extended along Buckingham Palaceroad, through the Mall and into Piccadilly; and, at a given signal, it moved onwards.! The coffin prayer around the still open tomb. was covered with a splendid white silk pall. The whole grand ceremonial is over now; and on this there were those symbols of regal | and it may be said that it is well with the Queen dignity—the crown, sceptre, and orb. As chief and well with us. She has left amongst us an mourner, the King rode behind the gun- undying memory of a great life's task nobly accarriage, with the German Emperor on his right and the Duke of Connaught on his left. The devotion of the crowd as the bier passed along was a touching sight. The dull boom of the minute-gun smote upon the car, and bells to feel that the honour which the nation paid were tolling mournfully all the time.

was drawn up in front of the funeral car. . The -King, the German Emperor, and the Duke of Connaught dismounted, and took their praces on the platform, and Queen Alexandra and the which held the coffin.

> THE PROCEEDINGS AT WINDSOR. A STARTLING INCIDENT.

The train arrived, at Windsor about two o'clock o'The King was the first to slight, during the 5th and 6th Moons ordering the conquered human strength, but the victory is and imperial insigns, was removed from the suppression of the Boxers and the protect incomplete. For the spirit of the dead Queen funeral car by Grenadiers and placed on a guni tion of the Christians. But the people triumphed in spite of the outward evidence carriage; behind which the King, the Emperor, and the Duke of Consaught took their places The order was at once given to start; but a Quietly and reverently the Royal procession difficulty occurred with the horses, some of which became unmanageable, and the carriage could not be moved. It was a painful and dramatic scene, writes one of the correspondents. The King of England and the representatives of the world looked on dumbfounded. In vain the artillerymen repeatedly tried to get the horses to proceed quietly. They only plunged and kicked more fiercely than before. The onlookers held their breath. The bands stopped playing, but the horses still refused to drag the carriage an inch. The artillerymen exhausted all their devices to quieten the animals, and others went to their assistance, but their combined efforts availed

THE HOUR AND THE MAN.

Suddenly what appeared to be a hopeless difficulty was solved. The stupefying emergency had called forth the man. The man was Captain the Hon. Hedworth Lambton, Powerful Lambton, of Ladysmith. Let the horses be taken out, he suggested, and the bluejackets forming the guard of honour have the supreme privilege of drawing their dead mistress to St. George's Chapel. 'No sooner said than done. The restive horses were taken out of the guncarriage and led awager Then the tars surrounded the carriage, and ropes, harness, and communication cords were brought from the train. Never will the sight be forgotten by its beholders. The King and the German Emperor watched the proceedings keenly, and it was remarkable how well His Majesty

LAST SAD RITES-INTERMENT

The interment of the Queen's remains at Frogmore on 4th inst. was marked by another picturesque pageant and an affecting final service. These formed at once a marked contrast and an impressive sequel to the memorable course, take the form of a popular demonstration. There was no longer the pressure of vast crowds, and no glittering array of Ambassadors or statesmen, but there was still much to stir every imagination. No strangers were admitted to the Castle grounds, and the only witnesses to the Funeral Procession when i started were the Military Knights of Windsor. The coffin, which had remained during the night in the Albert Memorial Chapel, was again placed upon a gun-carriage, in front of which walked the personal servants of Her late Majesty. Following it came the King and the German Emperor, each wearing the uniform of a Field-Marshal, the King of the Belgians, the King of Portugal, the Princes of the Royal family, and afterwards the Queen, with the daughters and several of the granddaughters of the late Queen, and the Ladies of the Royal Househeld. Large crowds of people assembled in the Long Walk to see the mournful Procession pass, but none were admitted within the grounds at Frogmore. The scene within the Mausoleum was, though simple most impressive. The King and Royal family were grouped round the coffin whilst the Burial Service was conducted. The musical passages were rendered by the choir of St. George's Chapel. The Bishop of Winchester and the Dean of Windsor read the service. The anthem

Mr. Balfour and the Church. There is a widely spread rumour that Mr. Balfour intends to bring in a Bill early in the ensuing Session dealing with the troubles in the Church. The exact form of the measure is not yet, settled, but is understood that it will not be in the nature of a discipline Bill, but rather in the direction of a measure for giving powers of self-government to the Church, sublect to the veto of Parliament,

The Vacant see of London. It is reported in ecclesiastical circles that the vacant bishopric of London is likely to be conferred upon Dr. Jayne, the Bishop of Chester. The Bishop of Chester, whose handsome appearance led Mr. " Punch" to call him " My Pretty Layne," is well-known as a temperance advocate and as a good administrator. In Church controversies he may be described as holding moderate High Church views.

Great Fire at Baku.

A terrible catastrophe has occurred at Baku. of the Caspian and Black Sea Company, comtaining an immense quantity of petroleum, amounting to 6,000,000 puds. The flames spread to three other depôts with a storage capacity of 12,000,000 puds. While every effort was being made to control the fire, the naphtha the dwellings of the working people. The snow upon them. houses caught fire and were utterly destroyed. Many persons perished.

Misplaced Enthusiasm.

Mrs. Carrie Nation, the leader of the Kansas Temperance Crusade, had a narrow escape from death on 5th ulto, in Topeka; the capital of the State. She entered the finest saloon in the city, and was demolishing the furnishings when someone in the rear of the place fired a revolver shot at her. The bullet struck the wall just over her head. Five men and three women were with her at the time, and a great crowd in the streets gathered outside and threatened to lynch the entire party. They had begun to handle the men very roughly when policemen appeared and arrested Mrs. Nation and her eight followers as the best means of avoiding

The New Krupp Quick-Firer.

It appears unlikely that the new quick-firing gun invented by Krupp will oblige the Admiralty to increase the calibre of our own secondeary armaments. Much will depend, of course, upon the rapidity of fire achieved by the German weapon, and German officers are said to attach great importance to the invention of the 28 centimètre gun. It will be remembered, however, that the Germans adopted 8in, quickfirers some five years ago, and that quick-firers of equal calibre have been produced by at least one British company. Our gunnery officers experimented with these weapons and reported against them because the Service pattern 6in gun could throw a greater weight of metal in equal time.

Attempted Suicide of a Prince. A great sensation has been caused in the Russian capital by the attempted suicide of Prince Baryatinski, the editor of the Severinge Curier, which was suppressed by the Government on account of its Liberal attitude. was owing to this that the Prince got into difficulties, which were the more embarrassing. finest, as it is one of the deepest and one of the since he had fallen out with his millionaire father, on account of his marriage with an family ties. Both peoples feel that the devotion actress. The Prince was a special favourite of the Emperor has shown to the memory of his the students, and it was his sympathies with grandmother does credit to the excellence of them which caused the Government to pro- his character and of his heart. We in England ceed against him. Should his attempt to take of all ranks and classes have been profoundly will be serious demonstrations on the part of the students.

The German Navy.

The present year will witness a considerable increase in the strength of the German navy, in accordance with the provisions, of the Navy a better understanding between ourselves and Law of 1900. Three battleships—the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, the Kaiser, Barburessa, and the Kaiser Karl der Grosse-which are being built at Kiel, Danzig, and Hamburg cannot be supposed to have any direct influence respectively, will, it is expected, be launched this year. The navy will be further strengthened by the addition of five cruisers, which will be completed before the end of the year. Besides the above vessels, five battleships, one armoured cruiser, and one gunboat are at present on the stocks, and will be joined, so soon as the ngval estimates for the financial year 1901 ate accepted, by two battleships, one armoured any rate it is distinctly useful on occasions to cruiser, and three protected cruisers, for the construction of which the first instalments will

The Alexandra Palace. London is to be congratulated on having secured the Alexandra Palace and grounds as a national possession. Hitherto the place has not been very happy either in finance or reputation. It was long in building, and then. it was burnt down, but even since its reconstruction it could never be called successful, and at one time it became notorious for its Cockney deer-hunts and other sports, equally cruel and ridiculous. We are too busy, and we take our pleasures much too seriously, for a place of dubious entertainment in the distant suburbs. The difficulty will be for the public authorities to decide now what use it will best serve. For the building itself we can imagine very little serve for occasional concerts on the scale of be invaluable.

The Navy Estimates.

A correspondent hears on good authority that the coming Navy Estimates will provide for battleships aggregating 17,000 tons; and the secondary armament, instead of being all 6in. quick-firing guns, as has hitherto been the case, will include a new 7'5 quick-firing gun. To show the full significance of the changes, it may be stated that the largest existing yeasel . is a Japanese battleship of 15,000 tons, while the Americans propose to build ships of 15.300" tons. The increase on the heaviest existing battleships in our own Navy will be 2,000 tons. It- is calculated by the Admiralty that by the time the new ships are in commission the large. docks now in course of construction at Gibraltar, Malta, and Hongkong will be available for their use, and they will have the advantage of the widened Suez Canal, with a uniform depth of thirty feet.

Lucky London

Another addition has to be made to the series of noble gifte made by munificent donors to Bicarhonat, W. London. At the meeting of the London County Council on the 5th ulto, the chairman, Mr. Bronson, O. C. W. H. Dickinson, read a letter from another. Benn, A. member, Mr. R. J. Horniman, embodying a Bashan, E. H. splendid offer from that gentleman's father, Bales, H. H. Mr. F. J. Horniman, M.P. The latter offers Burck as a free gift to London's freehold estate of Bingham, J. E. fifteen acres, near Forest-hill, with the museum Burns, J. thereon, erected at a cont of 440,000, and con- Braga, Mrs. talking the large art and natural listory collect Boyle, La

The Council accepted the gift with acclamation, the chairman estimating its value at from £60,000 to

The Danger of Overhead Wires.

An accident to the telephone wires in Liverpool on 4th ult. had very serious consequences and has caused great alarm in the city. It appears that a "bunch" of wires fell upon the trolley wires of the electric tramway system, which are heavily charged with electricity. When the ends of the fallen wires touched the ground the electrical circuit was completed, Cowte, E. H. and people who came into contract with them. received shocks of greater or less strength. Gooke, L. F. The streets in the neighbourhood of the accident were full of people, and many persons became entangled in the "live" coils which Datema, Capt. E. were partly hidden by the snow. The earlier Duckmanton attemps at rescue only led to an addition to Donnelly, P. the number of victims, the current being Devenport, Dr. transmitted to the would-be rescuers through Drake-Brockman the bodies of the original sufferers. The On the 5th ulto, a fire broke out in the magazine shricks and groans of the terrified foot-passengers are described as heartrending. When Degan, A. B. H. the unfortunate people were at length released from their perilous situation it was found that two men had been killed, and that a great many others were in a serious condition, suffering from burns, hysteria, and shock. The fall poured out, like a stream of lava, and inundated of the wires was due to the accumulation of Emulschiffe, H.

Naval Expenditure. An instructive paper haz just been published Finlayson, H. M. showing, for all the principal countries in the world, how the naval expenditure of each country compares with the commercial interests at | Forrest, Miss A. The paper is specially valuable for the light it throws on the vexed question whether the Colonial contributions towards the naval defence of the Empire are adequate. After studying these figures the most complacent Canadian or Australian will be bound to admit that the Colonies do not make a very creditable Grant, W. appearance. Take first the question of exports. In proportion to their exports-by sea-the six Colonies of Australia which are now federated in one Commonwealth spent on naval defence one halfpenny forfevery pound's worth of trade. The United Kingdom spent in proportion 1s. 5d., or thirty-four times as much. Take next the mercantile marine. For every ton of Australian-owned shipping Australia spent tos the corresponding figure for the United Kingdom was 57s. It may be argued that Australia is poorer, and can therefore afford less; but the revenue test gives the same result as the other tests. Out of every pound of revenue raised the United Kingdom devotes 1s. 4d. to the naval defence of the Empire; Australia devotes' three halfpence; New Zealand stands much in the same position as Australia.

The German Emperor.

· The Times in a leading article says :--The simple and cordial fashion in which the German Emperor has shared the sorrows of his Royal kinsfolk and of the British people will not lightly be forgotten by us. Now that all is over he, too, is constrained to terminate his long visit of condolence and of respect to our shores and to return to his exalted duties as the Sovereign of the German people. There have been and there may again be differences of opinion between the British and German nations, but these two great races of Teutonic blood have many fine qualities in common, and one of the most general, is their affectionate regard for his life end in his death, it is feared that there | touched by it-the more profundly because we are well aware that it does not and cannot possess the political significance some ill informed Continental writers have been inclined to ascribe to it." The kindly and cordial feelings towards the German Emperor it has stirred in all hearts may, we trust, help to promote the nation over whom William II. bears rule, but, save in this respect, this tribute of family affection and of love and reverence for the dead upon international affairs.

Through Chinese Spectacles. In a series of letters to the Saturday Review signed "John Chinaman," the writer regards certain aspects of Western civilisation from the Chinese point of view. Some of his remarks are not without both sense and force, and at see ourselves as others see us. The picture is not, exactly flattering, but after making all allowances for exaggeration, candour compels one to admit that it is not altogether fanciful, The English citizen, from "John Chinaman's" point of view, is divorced from nature but unreclaimed by art ; instructed, but not educated assimilative, but incapable of thought. Trained in the tenets of a religion in which he does not believe-for he sees it flatly contradicted in every relation of life-he dimly feels that is prudent to conceal under a mask of piety the atheism he is hardly intelligent enough to avow. His religion is conventional; and, what is more important, his morals are as conventional as his croed. Charity, chastity, self-abnegation, contempt of the world and its prizes-these are the words on which he has been fed from his childhood upwards. And words they have remained; for he has neither anywhere seen them practised by others, nor has it ever occurred to him to use of any kind, except that part of it might practise them himself. Their influence, while it is strong enough to make him a chronic the Handel Festivals. But the grounds will hypocrite, is not so strong as to show him the hypocrite he is. Deprived on the one hand of the support of a true ethical standard, embodied in the life of the society of which he is a mem her, he is duped, on the other, by lip-worship of an important ideal. Abandoned thus to his instinct he is content to do as others do, and ignoring the things of the spirit to devote himself to material ends. Our architecture, litera-ture, and art, all come in for criticism, and finally society is described as a huge engine, and that engine itself out of gear!
